Elaine Marshall grew up in the beautiful Lake District in England before migrating to Australia in the 1970s with her family. She attended West Wyalong High School and now resides in Wyalong with her husband and children.

After many years of book-keeping, Elaine decided that she needed a new challenge and career, that's when the desire to fuse and slump art glass lead her to purchase her first kiln, unaware of where it would take her - three years later the kiln never stops.

She opened her own gallery, Exclusive Hot Glass in August 2009. Using a special fusible glass imported from America, she now has over sixty moulds which enable her to create an ever increasing range of colourful contemporary glassware including vases, jewellery, plates, platters, bowls and wall art.
