Lawn Cemetery Memorials

The Lawn Burial sections shown in this booklet currently have positions available for new graves and reservations. While these sections are traditionally used for burials, the graves can also accommodate cremated remains, allowing family members with different needs to be together.

Each current section at the Wagga Lawn Cemetery has different memorial options to meet different cultural, religious and personal preferences. In the following pages of this brochure detailed information is supplied on the different sections and memorial options available. Memorials are not included in the cost of burial or cremation.

WHY MEMORIALISE?

A memorial provides an enduring memory of someone who is no longer with us. It serves as a focal point for families and friends to reflect on the life of their loved one.

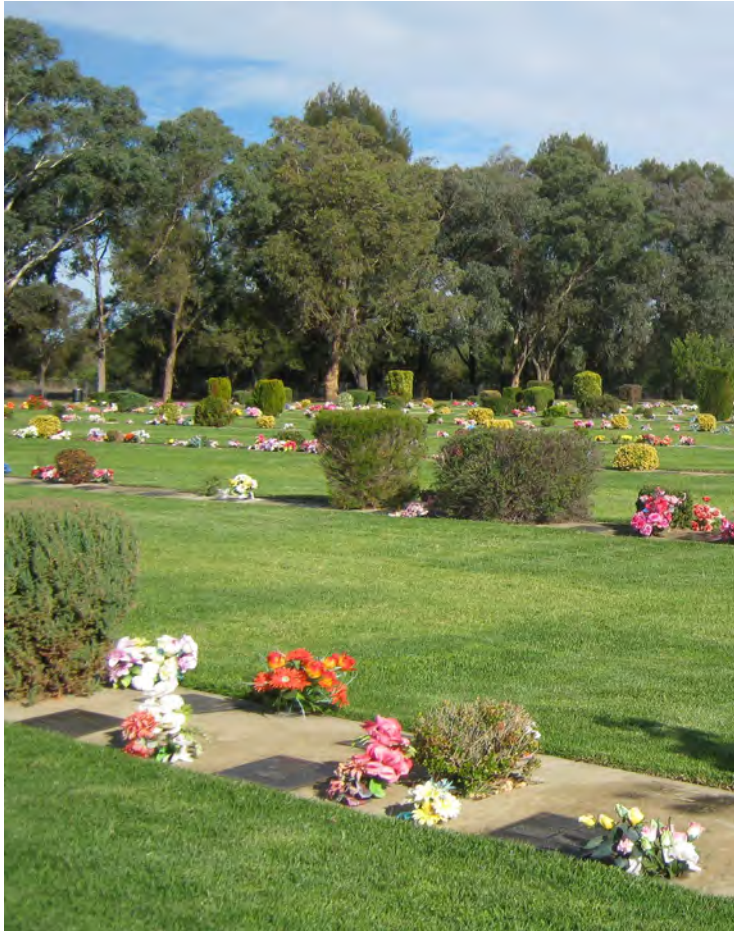

It ensures future generations have a place to visit and remember those that have been before them. A memorial creates a connection with history, an important sense of belonging and identity.

“A memorial ensures that a person will be remembered and never forgotten”

NATURAL BURIALS

This section was developed in 2012 and includes plant species endemic to the local area.

Natural burials are also accepted at the four rural cemeteries managed by Wagga Wagga City Council, Uranquinty, Humula, Tarcutta and Currawarna.

The main principal of natural burial is that the body (or cremated remains) is prepared for burial or interment without chemical preservatives and a simple shroud or biodegradable coffin is used. The body or remains are returned to the earth to decompose naturally.

In an attempt to keep the burial area as natural as possible there is no physical identification or memorial used at the site. Therefore there are no headstones, vases or flowers placed at the burial site. Accurate maps and plotting data is recorded to ensure that future generations are able to locate the place of burial.

MEMORIAL OPTIONS

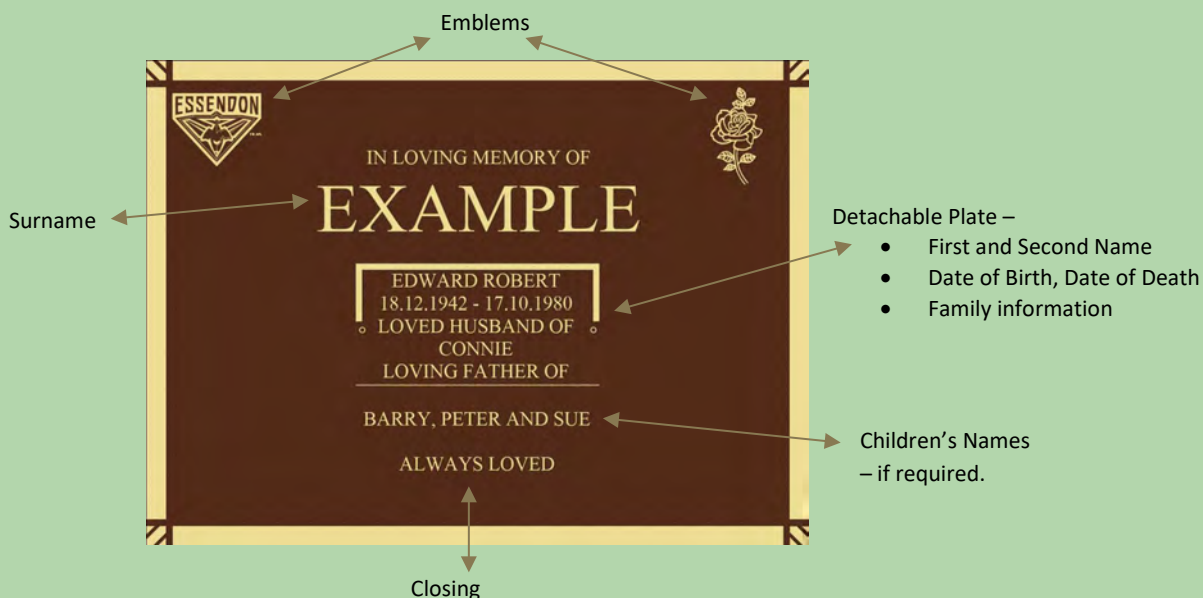

BRONZE CONVERSION PLAQUE

Available in the following sizes –

- 380 x 280mm
- 559 x 305mm

A conversion plaque is an ideal choice if you wish to be interred with your loved one and share much of the same information, for example, surname and children. Following the first interment, a base plaque is ordered with an inscription that includes common elements of the couple such as the family name and names of decedents. At the same time details of the individual are included on the “first detachable plate”. This is supplied with and fitted to the centre of the base plaque. When the second interment occurs the second plate is ordered, the first plate repositioned and the second plate installed.

Design options are available including emblems, borders, plaque colour and the addition of ceramic photos. A conversion plaque can also be coupled with a granite panel base in Section 10.

EXAMPLES

15 x 11" Bronze Conversion Plaque with 5 Line Detachable Plate in Section 3

15 x 11" Bronze Conversion Plaque with 5 Line Detachable Plate on Red African Granite Panel with 2 x Vase Holes and Bronze Vases in Section 10

15 x 11" Bronze Conversion Plaque with 5 Line Detachable Plate with concrete base in Section 10

- 559 x 305mm

A single bronze plaque is a popular choice for many families when memorialising their loved ones. Detailed family information can be included, including children and grandchildren. In certain sections a second plaque can be placed, if space allows, accommodating a second interment. Design options are available including emblems, borders, plaque colour and the addition of ceramic photos. A single plaque can also be coupled with a granite base in Section 10 and the Forget-me-not Section.

EXAMPLES

380 x 280mm Bronze Plaque with Camping and Fishing Emblem in Section 3

559 x 305mm Bronze Plaque with Farmyard Emblems on Black Granite Panel with 2 Vase Holes in Section 10

- 559 x 305mm

Similar to a conversion plaque a Book of Life design is an option if you wish to be interred with your loved one and share the same plaque. Following the first interment the base plaque is supplied with the left hand page containing the inscription fitted. Following the second interment, a right hand page is ordered with the inscription and fitted to the base plaque.

Design options are available including emblems, plaque colour and the addition of ceramic photos. A book of life plaque can also be coupled with a granite panel base in Section 10.

Upright Granite Panels are available in three different colours; Black Galaxy, Blue Pearl and Africa Red. Different lettering options are also available including V-Cut, Raised Edge and Reverse Blast, each of these can be combined with gold or silver gilding or a painted or natural finish. PERSONALISING BRONZE PLAQUES

There are many design options available to personalize your loved one's memorial. The following are examples of some of the design options we have available.

MOTIFS AND EMBLEMS

The appearance of a plaque can be enhanced by the use of motifs. There are two types of motifs available, Flat Relief and BAS Relief.

FLAT RELIEF: These motifs are created by the plaque manufacturer using design software.

Examples of Flat Relief motifs

BAS RELIEF: These motifs are sculptured by the plaque manufacturer in a three dimensional shape. The surface of the motif is highlighted in bronze on the plaque resulting in a motif with depth and perspective.

Examples of Bas Relief motifs

PLAQUE BORDERS AND COLOUR OPTIONS

The border is the design that surrounds the bronze plaque. There are two types of borders available, Raised and Sculptured.

RAISED BORDERS: These are solid borders with a choice of corner designs

SCULPTURED BORDERS: These border designs are more elaborate and intricate and are selected to match the design or theme of the plaque.

There are also many options for background colour on bronze plaques. The background colour provides a contrast to the raised elements of the plaque, including the inscription and motifs. The standard colour is dark brown (above left), but there are a choice of colours available, including dark blue, dark green and maroon (as above).

For further information on design options please contact the Cemetery office.

OFFICE OF AUSTRALIAN WAR GRAVES

Office of Australian War Graves memorials can be placed in Section 3 and Section 10 at the Wagga Wagga Lawn Cemetery. The memorial is provided and maintained in perpetuity by the Office of Australian War Graves for veterans of the Australian armed forces who die in war or conflict, or eligible veterans who die after a war or conflict of causes related to their service in that war or conflict.

How to arrange the memorial?

- Notify Department of Veterans Affairs (DVA) when the veteran passes away. If the veteran is eligible for an official commemoration, DVA will contact the Office of Australian War Graves (OAWG)
- The Office of Australian War Graves will send information and a form to the next of kin, advising of the options available –
 - Memorial in a cemetery or lawn cemetery – OAWG will arrange for the placement of a standard size single bronze plaque. In the case of a second interment the veteran's plaque cannot be moved or changed in any way. For this reason if the first interment takes place in Section 3 if a second interment were to take place the OAWG memorial would need to be completely removed (with permission) and replaced with a plaque paid for by the family. If the first interment takes place in Section 10 and an OAWG memorial is placed in position, when the second interment takes place there is space for a second plaque of the same size to be placed.
 - Memorial in a crematorium – OAWG will arrange for the placement of the ashes in a wall niche or garden bed with a bronze plaque.
 - Memorial in the Office of Australian War Graves Garden of Remembrance – A Garden of Remembrance memorial is provided as an alternative to the lawn cemetery and crematorium options.
- Complete the documentation in full and return to OAWG.

If you choose not to proceed with an OAWG memorial you may wish to have a Service Badge emblem included on the bronze plaque or granite panel. Cemetery staff will apply for permission to use the Service Badge and will include this information in your memorial order.
